

THE MESSAGE.

The President Appeals to Congress to Stop the Surplus.

Reduction of Duties on Necessities of "Paramount Importance."

Necessity of Immediate Escape From a "Vicious, Inequitable and Illogical" Tariff.

Just as "The World" said, the Message is confined to one question, the necessity of stopping the surplus by reducing taxes—President Cleveland Urges Action Before Disaster Comes—"A Condition Confronts Us, Not a Theory"—Consumers are Assured Beyond Reason—The Remedy a Subject for Careful Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(The Capital) was crowded this morning for an hour before Congress met. The Senate immediately after it was called to order, on motion of Mr. Hoar took a recess for half an hour to await the President's message.

The House met at 12:30 and took a recess of twenty minutes to await the President's message.

To the Congress of the United States:

You are confronted at the threshold of your legislative duties with a condition of the national finances which imperatively demands immediate and careful consideration.

The amount of money annually exacted, through the operation of present tariff laws, from the necessities of the people, largely exceeds the sum necessary to meet the expenses of the Government.

When we consider that the theory of our institutions guarantees to every citizen the full enjoyment of all the fruits of his industry and enterprise, with only such deduction as may be his share to the Government, which protects him, and maintains the order and economy of the nation, it is manifest that the exaction of more than this is indefensible.

It is a betrayal of American faith, a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

THE MESSAGE.

The President Appeals to Congress to Stop the Surplus.

Reduction of Duties on Necessities of "Paramount Importance."

Necessity of Immediate Escape From a "Vicious, Inequitable and Illogical" Tariff.

Just as "The World" said, the Message is confined to one question, the necessity of stopping the surplus by reducing taxes—President Cleveland Urges Action Before Disaster Comes—"A Condition Confronts Us, Not a Theory"—Consumers are Assured Beyond Reason—The Remedy a Subject for Careful Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(The Capital) was crowded this morning for an hour before Congress met. The Senate immediately after it was called to order, on motion of Mr. Hoar took a recess for half an hour to await the President's message.

The House met at 12:30 and took a recess of twenty minutes to await the President's message.

To the Congress of the United States:

You are confronted at the threshold of your legislative duties with a condition of the national finances which imperatively demands immediate and careful consideration.

The amount of money annually exacted, through the operation of present tariff laws, from the necessities of the people, largely exceeds the sum necessary to meet the expenses of the Government.

When we consider that the theory of our institutions guarantees to every citizen the full enjoyment of all the fruits of his industry and enterprise, with only such deduction as may be his share to the Government, which protects him, and maintains the order and economy of the nation, it is manifest that the exaction of more than this is indefensible.

It is a betrayal of American faith, a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

THE MESSAGE.

The President Appeals to Congress to Stop the Surplus.

Reduction of Duties on Necessities of "Paramount Importance."

Necessity of Immediate Escape From a "Vicious, Inequitable and Illogical" Tariff.

Just as "The World" said, the Message is confined to one question, the necessity of stopping the surplus by reducing taxes—President Cleveland Urges Action Before Disaster Comes—"A Condition Confronts Us, Not a Theory"—Consumers are Assured Beyond Reason—The Remedy a Subject for Careful Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(The Capital) was crowded this morning for an hour before Congress met. The Senate immediately after it was called to order, on motion of Mr. Hoar took a recess for half an hour to await the President's message.

The House met at 12:30 and took a recess of twenty minutes to await the President's message.

To the Congress of the United States:

You are confronted at the threshold of your legislative duties with a condition of the national finances which imperatively demands immediate and careful consideration.

The amount of money annually exacted, through the operation of present tariff laws, from the necessities of the people, largely exceeds the sum necessary to meet the expenses of the Government.

When we consider that the theory of our institutions guarantees to every citizen the full enjoyment of all the fruits of his industry and enterprise, with only such deduction as may be his share to the Government, which protects him, and maintains the order and economy of the nation, it is manifest that the exaction of more than this is indefensible.

It is a betrayal of American faith, a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

THE MESSAGE.

The President Appeals to Congress to Stop the Surplus.

Reduction of Duties on Necessities of "Paramount Importance."

Necessity of Immediate Escape From a "Vicious, Inequitable and Illogical" Tariff.

Just as "The World" said, the Message is confined to one question, the necessity of stopping the surplus by reducing taxes—President Cleveland Urges Action Before Disaster Comes—"A Condition Confronts Us, Not a Theory"—Consumers are Assured Beyond Reason—The Remedy a Subject for Careful Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(The Capital) was crowded this morning for an hour before Congress met. The Senate immediately after it was called to order, on motion of Mr. Hoar took a recess for half an hour to await the President's message.

The House met at 12:30 and took a recess of twenty minutes to await the President's message.

To the Congress of the United States:

You are confronted at the threshold of your legislative duties with a condition of the national finances which imperatively demands immediate and careful consideration.

The amount of money annually exacted, through the operation of present tariff laws, from the necessities of the people, largely exceeds the sum necessary to meet the expenses of the Government.

When we consider that the theory of our institutions guarantees to every citizen the full enjoyment of all the fruits of his industry and enterprise, with only such deduction as may be his share to the Government, which protects him, and maintains the order and economy of the nation, it is manifest that the exaction of more than this is indefensible.

It is a betrayal of American faith, a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

It is a betrayal of the trust which the people have placed in their Government, to exact more than this.

A NEW CABINET.

Nominations Made by the President To-Day.

Lamar Named for Judge of the Supreme Court.

Don M. Dickinson the New Postmaster-General.

Secretary Fairchild's Name Sent in for Secretary of the Treasury and Isaac H. Maynard, of This City, Selected as His Assistant.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—These nominations were sent to the Senate this morning by the President:

Lucius Q. A. Lamar, of Mississippi, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Wm. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin, to be Secretary of the Interior.

Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan, to be Postmaster-General.

Gen. Chas. S. Fairchild, of New York, to be Secretary of the Treasury.

George L. Rives, of New York, to be Assistant Secretary of State.

Isaac H. Maynard, of New York, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Signorey Butler, of Massachusetts, to be Second Comptroller of Treasury.

James W. Hyatt, of Connecticut, to be United States Treasurer.

CRUELTY BEAT AN OLD MAN.

Policeman John Reed's Strange Behavior Towards Mr. and Mrs. Moritz.

Henry M. Moritz, of 238 Ninth avenue, a workman in Sergeant's Rock Drill Company, in Ninth avenue and Twenty-seventh street, was brutally clubbed on Sunday night by Policeman John Reed, of the nineteenth Precinct. He had his thumb broken, his head and face cut and he was injured internally.

Mr. and Mrs. Moritz were standing in Fourth avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, between 7 and 8 o'clock, waiting for an uptown car, when Reed roughly ordered them to move on. Mrs. Moritz reminded him that they were doing no wrong, and would not move until a car came along. Mr. Moritz moved away to avoid trouble, and when a car came along, the wife got aboard, but the old man was not so nimble and failed to reach it.

Then Policeman Reed, wearing No. 1730 on his hat, crept up behind Mr. Moritz and beat him about the face and head with his night stick, every blow leaving a mark. One of the broken struck his thumb and broke two bones.

Mr. Moritz was not arrested, but took a car to his home. His wife says that he was struck by the police and bruised, and suffered greatly. A doctor was called in to dress the wounds.

The Moritzes appeared before Supt. Murray last night, requesting him to return to the morning when Policeman Reed will tell his side of the story. Charges will be preferred against him.

MAJOR HAGGERTY GROWING WORSE.

One Operation Performed on His Throat and Another Contemplated.

Major James Haggerty, who was in a very critical state all day yesterday, is even worse this morning. He still suffers intense pain and loss of sleep.

The large glandular swelling on the side of his neck has not subsided. At 3 o'clock this morning his breathing powers became very limited, and it being feared that he might choke to death, Dr. Beebe, the throat specialist, was summoned, and performed an operation, which rendered the patient more comfortable.

Dr. Beebe will confer with the attending physician this afternoon, and the advice will be given as to whether another operation, which it can be accomplished successfully, may prolong Major Haggerty's life.

PLACED AT A VALUE.

(From the Pittsburgh Chronicle.)

The most serious incident of the week was the action of the police magistrate in estimating a Baltimore girl's kim at one dollar. It ought to have been a thousand.

There Was Wire Enough.

(From the Pittsburgh Chronicle.)

Friend to (happy father)—Hello, Jones, let me congratulate her. I hear you have a new boy at your house.

Happy Father—By George! can you hear him all this distance?

Better Times.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

Men talk of it being hard times for the poor, and for the poor man to-day buy a locomotive for $5,000 which would have cost him $20,000 ten years ago.

Tips from "The World's" Ticker.

The stock market, as a whole, has to-day been dull and without feature.

The market opened at a decline of $\frac{1}{4}$ point from last night's closing prices. The Erie Railroad was the only stock that was in demand.

The temper of the room was conservatively bullish, and the speculation after the opening seemed to favor higher prices.

The